MISCELLANEOUS INFORMATION

Please register at Town Hall. In case of emergency it will be easier to find you. You must obtain a permit from the Fire Chief before setting an out-of-doors fire. Please note that this includes beach fires. Phone Orleans 758-R. Contact the Recreation Committee; they may have some sport in which your children would like to participate. See index for swimming instruction.

ABOUT THE COVER

The gull shown here, unlike most Eastham gulls, was about to sneak a peak inside the picnic basket. But when he saw himself on the Handbook cover he exclaimed, "Wow!. How did I get there?"

Anyway, it looks as though he's going to share the lunch with a most acceptable companion, the gal who temporarily left the basket for a spot closer to the surf.

Harold Durand White, who painted this scene, tells us the gull that posed for him is named Oscar. The name of the gal sunning herself is unknown.

Eastham Blends Past And Present For The Ideal Vacation For All

Eastham's country-living spaciousness appeals to every vacationer. Add to this its famed charm and beauty, its unexcelled beaches and waters and its climate and you have a seashore vacation spot that can't be beat.

To these enviable natural assets you may also add the feeling of closeness to a rich and exciting past . . . all the more fascinating because it can be enjoyed amid the modern solid comforts and conveniences to be found in Eastham's rental facilities.

There is much that is pleasant to do here, for the active and for sedentary. Take your pick, if you wish, from the suggestions mentioned on page 11.

But even the simple act of waking to a new day in beautiful Eastham can be exhilarating. Each new day here, yours for relaxation and recreation, can make your Eastham vacation an adventure in contentment. Drink deeply of Eastham's fresh, pure air. Partake fully of Eastham's scenic splendor and its quiet byways. For vacationers of all ages there is food of this kind, and to spare, in Eastham. And you'll enjoy a gourmet's satisfaction from your daily feasting.

A beacon, a boy and the beach—all conversant with the wide Atlantic at the Nauset headlands in Eastham.

Uncrowded surf and sand invite the plunge.

When surfing's done there's beach galore for building or for antics.

There's Always A Beach Easy To Reach In Eastham

Eastham's renowned beaches, both bay and ocean, are never more than a few minutes away no matter where you stay here. Nauset or the Great Beach extends for over five miles along the Atlantic Ocean in Eastham. Its broad sands play host to thousands yet it is never crowded for leisurely strolls or, between dips, for relaxation to the tune of the surf's steady orchestration.

Castle building is an art the youngsters enjoy as the tide ebbs and there's beach play and healthful exercise aplenty. Nauset Beach is ideal for all bathers at low tide but parents of very young children may prefer the warmer and generally shallower bathing available at high tide at the many public beaches along Eastham's Cape Cod Bay shore.

Clear, fresh water ponds, too, offer unexcelled bathing when you prefer a change from salt and surf.

Attention Bathers! While on the Beach

DO

- 1—Call for help when you think you need it.
- 2—Report to Life Guard for First Aid Treatment.
- 3—Ask Life Guard for any information about tides, runouts, etc.
- 4—Call Orleans 50 for emergency on beach or in water.
- 5—Help us keep the beach safe and clean.

DON'T

- 1—Call for help unless you need it. That is no joking matter.
- 2—Go swimming right after eating or directly after any vigorous exercise.
- 3—Stay in sun over half hour on first exposure.
- 4—Take dogs on beach without leash.

For Your Fishing Choice Eastham Offers Varied Waters

Posing with your Eastham flounder catch or trying for stripers, it's all part of the sport.

During the summer the striped bass is king of salt water game fish in Cape Cod waters and Eastham's striper fishing is hard to beat. Surf casting all along the tides at Nauset Beach lures the experienced and the novice to try for the "big ones." And charter sport fishing boats, many skippered by Eastham men, will take you from Rock Harbor in quest of stripers offshore in the Bay.

Bluefish entice the angler too and are caught in both surf and bay in season. Flounder, tautog and a number of other good eating bottom fish make most any fishing trip from Eastham's shores something to recall happily.

Eastham's Town Cove is an excellent spot for flounder and plaice fish and trolling for striped bass here offers additional thrills. There are several boat liveries on the Cove shore so fishing can be fun for all the family.

From nearby Provincetown several sport fishing charter boats make runs for the tuna which begin moving into Cape waters in June. Generally they abound here until November, ranging in weight from about one hundred to a thousand pounds.

The fresh water ponds of Eastham, well stocked with fish, offer the angler much added sport with rod and reel. Bass, pickerel, white and yellow perch and horned pout can be taken from these waters.

SHELLFISHING

The shellfish (clams, oysters, quahogs and others) are not so plentiful now as in years gone by. But the Town of Eastham does plant seed quahogs in Salt Pond and here on a Sunday a pail full dug at low tide will provide an interesting activity and delicious eating.

Eastham's Historic Windmill

Built sometime before 1700 at Plymouth, the old windmill was dismantled and shipped across the bay, probably in 1788 and reassembled near the end of the Cape to grind cornmeal.

In 1793 the mill was taken apart again and hauled by oxen to its present location in Eastham. Here it was used to grind meal for fishermen and farmers of the surrounding area until about 1900. Now fully restored in Eastham's Windmill Park, it is the oldest workable grist mill on Cape Cod.

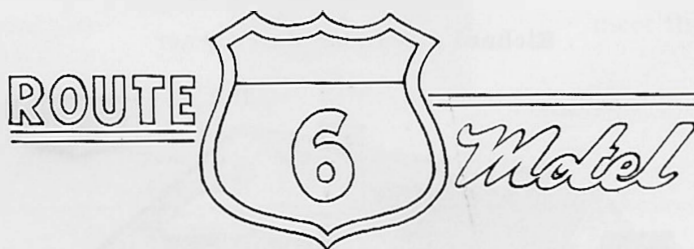

"It takes a healthy breeze to turn the shaft," explains Harold R. Cole, Eastham's Town Miller, who is in attendance for visitors through the warm weather.

The Windmill as it looks today—minus its sails.

EASTHAM, MASS.

History On Stone

by

Frederick Harris Jewell

A stroll through Eastham's old burying grounds can be richly rewarding to historian or casual visitor, especially if they bear one of the old names to be found on the ancient stones, for some were among the first settlers in the new world.

As you come into Eastham after leaving the rotary at the end of the Mid-Cape highway, keep your eyes open for the little cemetery on the right, about half-way to the town hall. It was in this vicinity near the Cove about 1644 that the first settlers built their homes, their 20 foot square meeting house with a thatched roof and portholes for guns, and buried their dead in the churchyard. A second meeting house replaced the first in 1676, and it was enlarged in 1700.

Samuel Treat, the town's first minister and ordained in 1672, was the Son of Governor Robert Treat of Connecticut. He died in a snow storm in 1716 at the age of 69, and was carried to his grave in this cemetery on the shoulders of his Indian friends. Somewhere in this small cemetery are the unmarked graves of three Mayflower passengers. Constance Hopkins (1605-1677) who married Nicholas Snow (Eastham town clerk from 1646 to 1662) in 1627 and had eleven children. Giles Hopkins (1607-1690) brother of Constance, who married Catherine Wheldon in 1639 and had seven children. Lieut. Joseph Rogers (1608-1678) who married Hannah (?) and had seven children. Over the centuries the slate stones have split, the epitaphs have weathered away, but still to be read are the graves of Samuel Brown, Captain Samuel Freeman, Deacon Edward Knowles, Thomas Mulford, David Doane, Thomas Lewes, Samuel Hedge, Ebenezer Harding, John Freeman, John Knowles, Richard Sparrow, Jonathan Sparrow, Daniel Cole, Hannah Snow, Thankful Higgins, along with wives and children in some instances. There are memorial stones to John Doane and Ralph Smith. The legible stones in this cemetery date from 1706 to 1757.

The Third meeting house was built in 1720 on Bridge Road near the center of town. Of this meeting house Heman Doane wrote:

1. The old South meeting-house, time-worn and gray that stood fronting East to the "King's Highway, that goeth to Billingsgate," so runs the phrase, in quaint old records of olden days.

2. All gone! that old Congregational band,
Save here and there one, to the Spirit land;
And their mouldering forms are sleeping near
Where the old church stood for many a year.

Here in the adjoining burying ground, are to found the stones of the Rev. Edward Cheever (and his wife Martha) who served from 1751 to his death in 1794, as well as deacons, sea captains, soldiers, and public servants. Here are to be found the later descendants of those named in the first churchyard, as well as the names Atwood, Cobb, Nickerson, Myrick, Remick, Pepper, Mayo, Packard, Clark, Lombard, Crosby, Shaw, and others dimmed by time. The stones in this cemetery date from 1754 to 1881.

The third meeting house was replaced by the fourth and last Congregational church on the main highway (now Route 6) just South of the railroad crossing. This last meeting house was sold about 1864, and only the burying ground, now known as the Congregational and Soldiers Cemetery remains, with still a few unsold lots. Here is to be found the stone of the Rev. Philander Shaw who was ordained in 1795 and served 42 years until 1838. Also are to be found the names of the later descendants of those in the two older burying grounds, and in addition the later names of Paine, Chase, Brackett, Hopkins, Gill, Cummings, and others. Here the stones date from about 1830 to the present.

With the passing of the Congregational church about 1864, the Methodist church was growing, for it was first organized about 1821. A larger Methodist Church was built in 1851 and this was destroyed by fire in 1920. The present Evergreen cemetery grew up around the Methodist church, and is now the town's principal cemetery. Here will be found names dating from about 1821 to the present, again containing many of the old names and more and more new, and later ones.

Target Ship In Bay Serves A Good Purpose

This target ship in Cape Cod Bay was a victory ship named General James E. Longstreet. Towed to its present position early in World War II, it rests on the bottom of the Bay and is used for target practice by U.S. Air Force planes stationed at nearby air fields. Light caliber ammunition as well as rockets and practice bombs are used to train the plane crews. When towed into position the ship was new but incomplete and had no engines.

This is the second year that the Eastham Board of Trade has opened its information center as an aid to visitors. Located at the junction of Route 6 and the old county road (see map), the building is staffed by a competent Easthamite who can help with answers to your questions for information about Eastham.

The Eastham Board of Trade was organized in 1959 for the purpose of uniting Eastham business people on subjects of general welfare. From the point of view of Eastham's visitors, this group plans to help Eastham grow aesthetically as well as to prosper economically, so Eastham may always be a beautiful, healthful place to visit, vacation or live.
